5

ABSTRACT

A mask simulation process is introduced into a conventional OPC procedure, prior to simulation of a photoresist pattern. Reticle simulation may be achieved using very short wavelengths of light as compared to the mask feature size. Alternatively, reticle simulation may be made through adjustments in a computer aided design process.